Paul Textile and Fashion Arts Galleries

One of America's most celebrated milliners, Benjamin B. Green-Field was Chicago's "Mad Hatter" for forty-nine years. With $500 and the help of his sister Bessie (the Bes of Bes-Ben) he opened his millinery shop in 1919, and eventually expanded to 5 stores throughout the city. Bes-Ben hats were coveted by women of all ages, although only a few could afford them. Known for elaborate, humorous, flamboyant creations, Chicago's "Mad Hatter" left a remarkable and enthralling fashion legacy. Today his hats are regarded as captivating surrealistic works of art.
